The tourism industry—by no means the least of the benefits that are accruing to the nation of Brazil—has contributed to the growth of education and nutrition. The growth of this industry is being encouraged by the Government, which has recently made new and improved facilities available to tourists and the development of new and improved facilities available to tourists and tourists. The tourism industry has been successful in the growth of Brazilian tourism, and its achievements have been noted and recognized by the United Nations and other international organizations.

The tourism industry has been successful in the growth of Brazilian tourism, and its achievements have been noted and recognized by the United Nations and other international organizations.